dll to run the program. Thanks! But I have not experienced any proper Results after inserting the command. Help me out! A: I was not able to run the sample without MZDLL Loader. I downloaded it from here : and it worked for me. As you said, I can't run it on XP. It seems that the installation file had some problems so you can uninstall and then reinstall, then it will work fine. I had the same problem. I am not very good at languages but I am pretty good at describing a fix. I finally figured out the problem. The command line was an absolute path. Because of that, if the application wasn't running when the app was installed, the command line would not be valid. The fix was to write the command line relative to %appdata%. Hope it helps! square-foot value for retailers, will release its first seasonal brochures this summer. Staar is acquiring Rialto from third-party investor R.R. Donnelley, one of AdLand Media's largest shareholders, and says Rialto will be the only third-party owned in-house distributor of its parent company's materials. The $13 million deal will help Staar expand its business in Canada and will give the Detroit-based firm, which last year posted $10 million in net sales, a presence in Canada's $3 billion grocery business.
